

Flickr, Identity and Community: Getting the most from photo sharing and social networking accounts

Helen Keegan - University of Salford, UK
KT-EQUAL Digital Identity Event
Friday 16th April 2010

Identity and Community

GeorgieR

Profile <http://www.flickr.com/people/funfilledgeorgie/>
 Birthday <http://www.flickr.com/photos/funfilledgeorgie/466814608/>
 Happy New Year <http://www.flickr.com/photos/funfilledgeorgie/2152646389/>

ANON: "a mystery to myself"

"I can not remember a time when ANON hasn't cracked me up. Take a normal comment stream and add her to it and you've instantly got WHAM! BAM! BOOM! - good times. I love her fun photographic eye, wonderful sense of humor and thoughtful comments. Can we clone her?"

"ANON is a promising and multitalented young artist in the visual, verbal, auditory, and literary arts, as well as in Ohio. Her photography displays a distinct idiosyncratic style, and her comments are brilliant and wickedly funny. Without ANON, flickr wouldn't be the same."

Questions

Getting started with Flickr
<http://www.slideshare.net/nebraskaccess/getting-started-with-flickr>

Helen Keegan, University of Salford
 Blog: <http://heloukee.wordpress.com>
 Twitter: <http://twitter.com/heloukee>
 Email: h.keegan@salford.ac.uk